

Camp Lejeune Water Study

If you lived or worked on Marine Corps Base Camp Lejeune ▪ between 1957 and 1987, you may have been exposed □ to contaminated drinking water.

The United States Marine Corps encourages all those who resided on the base prior to 1987 to register at the official Camp Lejeune water study website to receive updated information and notifications regarding the ongoing water study.

The Agency for Toxic Substance and Disease Registry (ATSDR), a federal public health agency, is conducting this study to determine whether potential health risks are associated with exposure to the impacted drinking water. The projected completion of the study is expected mid-2008. At that time the Marine Corps will notify former residents with the results.
